Local Perspective

From the front lines to power lines, electric co-ops care about veterans

BY KEVIN WHEELER

Electric co-ops have long had a special affinity for veterans, perhaps because they both are so closely aligned in outlook – focusing on service, mission and country. Maybe it's because a disproportionate number of veterans come from rural communities and return to their hometowns following active duty. Or maybe it's due to the shared work ethic of teamwork, cooperation and a "get it done" attitude. Most likely, it's all of the above.

At Access Energy Cooperative, we're among the more than 900 electric co-ops across the country to support and honor our nation's veterans of all generations. We're grateful to have veterans within our ranks, and we're proud to serve veterans and their families within our local community. In addition to providing safe, reliable and affordable electricity, we care for the veterans' community in a variety of ways.

We're not alone in our efforts to honor and serve veterans. As part of our national network of electric cooperatives that span 47 states and cover 75 percent of the nation's landmass, there are countless programs that our family of co-ops has initiated. At the national level, we support the "Serve Our Co-ops, Serve Our Country" program, a nationwide initiative aimed at employing and honoring veterans, military service members and their spouses. This program came from a great vision of forming a national coalition with the shared goal of hiring veterans into co-op jobs across America – and setting them up for success in their local communities.

As part of a co-op veteran outreach effort, America's electric cooperatives are working closely with federal partners, including the Department of Energy, Department of Labor, Department of Defense, Veterans Administration, labor unions and other trade associations on an industry-wide veterans' hiring initiative, The Utility Workforce Initiative. Together, these groups are establishing a national employee resource group, Veterans in Energy, which will launch later this year to provide transition, retention and professional development support to military veterans working in the energy industry.

At the local level, electric co-ops across America have created their own programs tailored to the unique needs of their community. For example, in Kentucky, Pennyrite Electric Cooperative printed more than 10,000 "thank you" cards that members signed and later were delivered to troops on active duty at nearby Ft. Campbell.

Many electric co-ops sponsor "Honor Flights," enabling veterans from the Korean conflict and WWII to visit war memorials in Washington, D.C., at no charge. In the small town of Fort Dodge, Kansas, Victory Electric Cooperative partnered with the local VFW to create the "Vittles for Vets" program aimed at stocking the food pantry at the Fort Dodge Soldiers Home. Many of the veterans living there and in surrounding communities have limited incomes, and the food pantry helps them meet basic needs.

Other co-ops are forging strong partnerships with the military bases in their service territories. In Wyoming and North Dakota, co-op leaders and staff serve on military-civilian boards and committees that support activities initiated by their respective bases.

While the activities may differ, a commitment to veterans is apparent at every electric co-op across the nation. We are proud to be a part of the cooperative network that honors and supports veterans of all ages, ranks and branches of the military. 🚀

Kevin Wheeler is the general manager/CEO of Access Energy Cooperative.

In the Community

Help others by contributing to RECare

RECare is a program where members help other members in need. You may make a one-time contribution to the RECare program, or you may enclose an amount each month with your monthly electric bill. Just one dollar a month will help others. In the past fiscal year, members contributed $2,671.49 to help other members!

The Iowa Community Action Program administers this program, and recipients must meet their guidelines.

Financial Matters

The dividends are coming!

If you weren't able to make it to the annual meeting of members Aug. 2, your dividend check was recently mailed to you. Accounts with payments of less than $5 will continue to accumulate and will be paid in the year they reach or exceed $5.

After reviewing the operating revenues for 2015, your Board of Directors approved a dividend retirement of $969,670. The refund is applied against years 1996, 1999, 2000 and 2015. The cooperative paid 100 percent of the remaining dividends for 1996, 29 percent of 1999, 61 percent of 2000 and 13 percent of 2015. A pass-through amount of $245,350 is from Northeast Missouri Electric Power Cooperative.

As an Access Energy Cooperative member, you own the cooperative. Unlike other electric utilities, we exist to make sure your needs are met – not to make a profit. As a member-owner, you share in the profits in the form of dividend checks. We work hard every day to keep your rates as low as possible. We also strive to earn your trust and excel at providing you with reliable service.

If you'd like to know more about dividends, check the co-op's website at www.accessenergycoop.com.

Annual Meeting

Even rainy weather couldn't

Members of Access Energy Cooperative celebrated the 2016 Annual Meeting of Members on Aug. 2 at McMillan Park in Mount Pleasant. Even with the downpour of rain throughout most of the day, the crowd was estimated at 3,300.

Members received a warm welcome from Mount Pleasant Mayor Steve Brimhall, and Kevin Wheeler was introduced as the new general manager/CEO of the cooperative. During the business session under the tents, speakers reported on "Working Together" and the cooperative's growth and contribution to the communities.

Access Energy Cooperative also was recognized for its economic development accomplishments and commitment to local communities, having been instrumental in numerous development projects and initiatives in southern Iowa. Some examples given were the Iowa Fertilizer Company's major investment near Wever (resulting in significant job creation), Heartland Co-op near Fairfield and MM Composite's new manufacturing facility at the Crossroads Industrial Park in Mount Pleasant.

Dividend checks totaling $969,670 were available for members to pick up at the meeting. Checks were later mailed to members unable to attend the meeting.

Other highlights of this year's event included an outstanding performance by singer Jake McVey and a great meal served by Mount Pleasant Hy-Vee. And even though some of the activities had to be cancelled due to the weather, people still enjoyed the drive-a-tractor by Joel Proennecke and Dick McGohan, carousel and ground train rides from Midwest Old Threshers, free popcorn from the IReNew renewable energy trailer, a live line demonstration on being safe around electricity, free blood pressure checks, and information from the Henry County Health Center, Milestones, and the Area Agency on Aging. There also were booths on the new Smarthub billing venue, the Coop Connections® Card and Coops Vote – in addition to energy efficiency and safety information. ⚡

Congratulations to these members who won bill credits at the Annual Meeting

Every member who attended the meeting received gifts such as a paring knife and energy-efficient lightbulbs, but the happiest member this year was Trisha DeVore, who took home the Grand Prize of a $750 bill credit. (Next year, we'll start over with a $250 bill credit for the Grand Prize.)

Eldon P. Taeger won the $100 bill credit for mail-in ballots. In addition, these members won $50 electric credits donated by Sherrill Electric: Rochelle Heisel, Terri L. Bailey, Donald Wasson, Wesley J. Shafer, Judith D. Bartachek, Mt. Pleasant Golf & CC, Kevin Hohl, Raymond Robbins, Kenneth Baldwin and Julie Carpenter.

▲ Tractor and carousel rides were favorite activities for kids of all ages.
